District-reported 2002 results

- On average, each teacher earned an additional $$ 3,236$ in compensation.
- 153 of 154 teachers accomplished school performance goals, including increasing student attendance, improving standardized test scores by 1 percent or more, and receiving satisfactory parent survey ratings. Teachers also met individual goals relating to curriculum development, classroom management, professional development, and communication with parents.
- 44 teachers earned additional monies for performing extra duties during the lunch hour and after school.
- Monies also helped pay for an additional fifth-grade teacher to reduce class size, a K-6 counselor to work with at-risk students, and for a portion of increased health insurance costs.
